UNITED STATES OF EUROPE.

Frenchman Predicts a Coalition to Resist American Aggression.

A union of the majority of the nations of Europe into a great federation has been predicted by Anatole Leroy Beaulieu, the French economist and sociologist, in a lecture on "The United States of Europe," given under the auspices of the Alliance Francaise in Chicago, says a dispatch from that city.

In this union, which Professor Beaulieu thought was sure to come about, though possibly not in the twentieth century, three nations, he said, would not be included—England, because it would combine instead with the United States; Russia, because it would form a great independent nation by itself; and Turkey, because it would be absorbed by the coalition and lose its identity. The union would be necessary, the speaker said, to resist American aggression and the "yellow peril."

The lecturer said he had perceived that this country has a "tendency to look upon continental Europe with the same regard that children have for superannuated parents, whose usefulness has come to an end."

"Europe," said Professor Beaulieu, "is in danger. The United States is pressing hard upon the old countries in all lines of activity, not merely commercial, but artistic and scientific. If this is not a sufficient cause, there is another in the far east. The progress of Japan will mean the awakening of China. The United States makes light of the 'yellow peril' but it does exist."

Farm Land in England.
Farm land in England ranges in price from $80 to $120 an acre.

Over a Dog's Grave.
On a tombstone at the head of a grave in one of the dog cemeteries in Paris is this inscription to the memory of a brave St. Bernard: "He saved the lives of forty persons and was killed by the forty-first."
